

Client: Oak Holdings plc
Source: The Sunday Telegraph (Business)
Date: 27 November 2005
Page: 7
Circulation: 710924
Area(cm<sup>2</sup>): 168

---

The sheriff polices the Supperclub

SCENES of horizontal enjoyment not seen in London since Roman times are set to return thanks to Aim-listed Oak Holdings. The company is to unleash the Supperclub, one of the most eccentric venues in Amsterdam, in EC1.

The unique feature of Supperclub is that instead of sitting at tables, diners recline on beds and cushions. Once the Roman-style feasting is over, the club side of the venue comes to the fore. There is also a stage for "performances": recent entertainment at the Amsterdam venue included a naked madam being smeared with chocolate.

However, with members of society as upstanding as St John Hartnell OBE, a former High Sheriff of Bristol, on Oak's board we're sure it will all be done in the best taste.

Hartnell, whose other clubs are the Garrick and MCC, may wish to imbibe with care when he visits. The cloakrooms at the Amsterdam venue are labelled "Homo" and "Hetero", with ladies and gents free to choose which they use. Classy.

Lie of the land the club includes a stage for 'performances'